8th Convocation
Dow University of Health Sciences

Message

It is much to my delight and privilege to congratulate all the graduates and post graduates standing successful in their respective medical and para-medical disciplines of various degrees, masters & diploma courses on the auspicious occasion of 8th Convocation of Dow University of Health Sciences.

Convocation is an occasion where although all the graduates feel that their goal of certification of graduation or post-graduation has been achieved but in reality it's the beginning of a practical professional career in which they have to maintain and excel in their professional services which they owe to our country. However as parents and teachers, we see our children and students accomplish our expectations as they enter a challenging practical life.

The degrees being awarded are PHD, M Phil, Masters, Bachelors, and Diplomas in their respective disciplines. All this has been possible under the patronage and guidance of our Chancellor, the Honorable Governor of Sindh, who has streamlined the educational excellence by showing his confidence in our visionary Vice Chancellor, Prof Saeed Qureishy.

We at the Dow University are fortunate and blessed to benefit from Prof. Saeed's expertise and experience not only in Academics and Administration but he has been a beacon of inspiration in all aspects of education in its true sense. Our mission is not only to produce good, qualified doctors and health professionals but to produce good leaders in medicine, good human beings with a feeling of compassion and social service.

I would like to give a message to all the graduates, that we believe in the process of continuing medical education, so all of them should keep themselves updated with recent and advanced medical knowledge and skills. Also every one of them is an ambassador of Pakistan and in particular of Dow University all around the globe and I am confident that they all will deliver to their best and will bring awards in innumerable ways for our country in future and make all of us proud of them. Our prayer and best wishes are with them.

I take this opportunity to especially thank our visionary and dynamic Vice Chancellor, Prof Saeed Quraishy for assigning me the responsibility of organizing this mega event and for all his support and guidance throughout. He kept us motivated and guided us with his wide experience in organizing this mega event. I would also like to convey my special thanks to the in-charge Professors of all the Committees and their faculty team members, who have voluntarily offered their support and time for executing this task to make this event successful.

I hope this Convocation will remain memorable for most of you to cherish for many, many years in your lives.
