

DOW UNIVERSITY OF HEALTH SCIENCES

OATH TO THE PROFESSION

Today, as I wear this white coat for the first time,

I solemnly pledge to uphold the values of the medical profession with sincerity, humanity, and dedication.

I vow to seek knowledge with passion and perseverance and to approach my studies with integrity and responsibility.

I will respect my teachers, honor my peers and seniors, and uphold the honor of the institution while maintaining discipline.

I will respect the diversity that my fellow students bring to the profession, committing to our mutual success.

I will uphold the principles of honesty, confidentiality, and professionalism, striving to earn the trust placed in me as a future physician.

I will use my professional knowledge in accordance with the laws of humanity and will not permit considerations of religion, nationality, race, gender, or social standing to intervene between my duty and my patients.

I will expose fraud and uphold integrity, standing against dishonesty to protect the trust of my patients and society.

May I always remain true to this coat, embracing the journey ahead with dedication and a heart full of purpose. So, help me, God.
